BITS Pilani's fun-filled fest

TNM | Oct 23, 2010, 12:00 AM IST

Students performing at Oasis 2009.

Oasis, the BITS Pilani fest, is on, and almost every college in Delhi University (DU) is participating, so don't be surprised if campus feels khaali khaali to you!

One of the biggest events in the campus calendar is on, Oasis 2010, the BITS Pilani fest, has emptied the corridors of DU colleges from October 22, yesterday, to October 26. The dance, drama, music and fashion societies of colleges have reached Pilani in busloads to participate in the extravaganza.

Neha, president of the choreo team of Sri Venkateswara College, was leaving for Pilani late at night on Thursday, just like many, many others from DU. She said that there were 12 people from the Venky choreo team, plus the Hindi and English dramatic societies, Western and Indian music societies, western dance society, perhaps the rock band some people for fine arts and other students who were just going to cheer and witness the fest. Devyani from the Daulat Ram College fashion society said that there were 15 people from her college going to Pilani, even as she was loading luggage into their bus. Samridhi Kapoor from Maitreyi College was going along with 11 others as part of the fashion society, and there are about a dozen members of the dance society who were also going with them.

A dramatic photograph of a man and a woman performing a contemporary dance pose on a stage. The man is in the foreground, leaning forward with his head down, wearing a dark tank top and shorts. The woman is positioned behind him, her body arched back with her legs raised and bent at the knees, wearing a light-colored leotard. The background is dark, and the scene is lit from below, creating strong shadows and highlights on their bodies.
